I would strongly recommend the submission by cllr Francis Duffy. South dublin needs a metro line. I live in ballycullen and can only rely on non-dependable buses that disappear from the app. The amount of residential build up in my areas is choking the road network. The local council can't even get a roundabout right (the one outside Orwell means traffic jams last long after 8pm now most nights). For me, and thousands of people who live around me, our closest luas is tallaght or dundrum. Each miles away, and in rush hour traffic, both are almost an hour away. We need a line servicing firhouse/ballycullen/rathfarnham which has nothing.
