South Dublin Metro link.

A metro line running out to Firhouse/Knocklyon area, would take a large amount of traffic out of the city centre. The area is too far from both the red and green luas lines to make them a viable option for commuting into the city centre. The population has increased in the area recently and with more building ongoing will continue to increase. Traffic is approaching unsustainable levels in the area and only gets worse as you get closer to the city centre. The bus service to the area is quite good but unfortunately will never suffice due to congestion on the roads.
