Message Body:

Sirs with regard the regional spatial planning strategy . As a small business in Drogheda i would like to have it noted that historically this drogheda area hase be ignored and marginilised by the relevent government agencies , for purely political reasons the power base is in Dundalk . Historically and currently Drogheda and east meath in spite of a massive population advantage has been gerrymandered from a local government and central government miss adminstration . We have a massive defesit of inward investment , local garda administration ,,half the town has to call ashbourne garda . The critical need for the northern cross route to relive the port traffice and open up the thousands of acers of development land for housing and business and industrial development has again been held up for craven political reasons . Will your people take a fare impartial and honest look at the situation of Drogheda irelands largest Town and next city or will the resourses again be dispersed to those with the most political influence , i hope your report will break the mould in this area and allow our future city to be finally administered for the benefit of all the inhabitants of east meath and the Drogheda city area . Regards Peter Monahan
